

ACFHP Completes Conservation Strategic Plan

October 2011

The ACFHP Conservation Strategic Plan proposes objectives and key conservation strategies to confront pervasive threats to fish habitat along the Atlantic coast. ACFHP will work to address these threats with a broad coordinated approach, and to leverage resources from many agencies, organizations, and others to make a difference for fish habitat. Subregional Priority Habitats are identified in the Plan as well, to attend to more localized issues and to focus the efforts of the Partnership so that it, together with partners, can make a measurable difference for fish habitat.

The ACFHP Conservation Strategic Plan is available on the Publications page of the ACFHP website (<http://www.atlanticfishhabitat.org/publications.cfm>).

The Plan was developed by the ACFHP Steering Committee, with input from the ACFHP Science and Data Working Group and others. Please contact Emily Greene (egreene@asmfc.org) if you have any questions.
